The Safe Burglary Trial.

At the opening of the safe burglary trial to-day, the Judge discharged the general panel of jury men from further attendance at Court, saying the present case would occupy nearly all the time between this and the beginning of next term, the first Monday in December. Testimony for the defense was taken up till the recess.

The Congressional Appropriation Committees.

It was expected that the House Committee on Appropriations would hold a meeting to commence the work of preparing the regular appropriation bills in advance of the assembling of Congress, but no quorum was present. Messrs. Garfield, Starkweather and O'Neill are now here, and Messrs. Wheeler, of New York, and Hale, of Maine, will arrive to-night. A majority of the committee will undoubtedly be here this week, when the estimates of various departments will be distributed to individual members, who will proceed to prepare the bills committed to their respective charge.

The Senate Committee on Appropriations will assemble here on the 15th, with a view to laying out their work and making detailed examinations of the different bureaus of the civil service, so as to be prepared to act promptly upon their annual appropriation bills as soon as they are received from the House. Senator Morrill, of Maine, Chairman of this committee, arrived last night, and has taken quarters for the winter. He will also devote much time between now and the end of the month to the work of completing the draft of a new form of government for the District of Columbia, the main features of which have been already agreed upon by the special committee appointed last session for that purpose, consisting of himself and Senator Hamilton, of Maryland, and Representatives E. R. Hoar, of Massachusetts, and Mitchell, of Wisconsin. The report of this committee, which will also, by the direction of Congress, treat of the true relations of the District of Columbia to the Federal Government, will be presented at the December session. It is believed the committee will recommend the placing of the affairs of the district in charge of the commissioners, with strictly defined powers and carefully guarded responsibility for the various local departments which they are to supervise.

The District Paying Its Debts.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia to-day returned the last instalment of the United States loan. They have also paid large sums to Masons and others in the discharge of debts contracted by the late District Government, the increased rates of taxation giving them ample funds.

The Portuguese Minister Recalled.

Mr. Lobo, the Portuguese Minister, today presented to the President his letter of recall, and expressed regret at leaving the country.

NEW YORK, November 10, 1874.

The Brooklyn Scandal Cases.

In the City Court Chambers at Brooklyn this morning, Judge Neilson, on application of Thos. G. Shearman, counsel for Beecher, ex-Judge Morris, counsel on the other side, offering no objections, continued a stay of proceedings in the Tilton-Beecher suit, until the argument has been heard on the appeal for granting a bill of particulars. Francis D. Moulton and Theodore Tilton were present.

Assistant District Attorney Moore appeared during the morning before Judge Reynolds, in the City Court Room, and entered a plea of "not guilty" in the libel suit brought by Miss Edna Dean Proctor against Moulton.

Meeting of Woolen Manufacturers.

Upon the adjournment of the annual meeting of the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers, the manufacturers of fancy cassimeres assembled to discuss the advisability of a decrease in the production of goods. The common feeling was that the condition of trade demanded the lessening of production, and while many objected to sign the paper agreeing to this, about twenty-five mills, through their representatives, agreed to stop twenty-five per cent. of their machinery for three months. Very many companies, whose names are not upon the paper, have adopted the course advised. The success of such a plan is felt by all. Fine cassimeres, which sold at $5 per yard in June, now bring only $3 or $3.50, and many medium grades have fallen from $1.60 to $1 per yard. Sales are small and stocks much larger than can safely be carried.

Tons of Silver.

The Assay Office received three and one-half tons of silver bullion from the San Francisco refinery to-day, the largest amount ever received at one time. It will be coined into fifty cent pieces, and sent, it is supposed, to South America.

Out of Work.

By the failure of George H. Reay, envelope manufacturer, three hundred and fifty persons are thrown out of employment.

SANITARY.

Meeting of the American Public Health Association.

PHILADELPHIA, November 10. — The American Public Health Association begun its third public meeting in the College of Physicians to-day, Dr. Stephen Smith, of New York, presiding. Distinguished physicians were present from all parts of the United States, including Dr. John H. Rauch, late Sanitary Superintendent of Chicago; Dr. B. C. Miller, Sanitary Superintendent of Chicago; Dr. Maennheimer, Sanitary Inspector of Chicago; Dr. J. J. Quinn, Health Officer of Cincinnati, and Dr. Thos. L. Neal, Health Officer of Dayton.

After some introductory remarks by President Smith, Prof. Henry Hartshorn delivered an address of welcome and read a paper on "Infant mortality in cities." He proposed that summer camps be provided outside of all large cities for mothers with young infants.

The Election in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, November 10.—Very nearly complete returns of the late election in this State show that the Republican State ticket was elected by over 5,000 majority. Donnell, Republican, for Congress in the First district, is elected by 3,461 majority. W. S. King, Republican, for Congress, in the Third district, has 2,311 majority, with a few precincts to hear from. In the Second district the result is still uncertain. The straight Republican candidate for Congress has so far 297 majority, and is probably elected, but it is possible that subsequent returns may defeat him, and elect E. St. John Cox. The Legislature is Republican by twenty-seven majority on joint ballot, but in this count are included several Independent Republicans and Anti-monopolists, whose votes are uncertain.

Philadelphia Brokers Swindled.

PHILADELPHIA, November 10.—Several thousand dollars worth of bogus city warrants were purchased to-day by brokers on Third street. The sufferers are E. D. Penney & Co., Ackley & Smith, Maris & Smith, and J. E. Ridgeway. The warrants counterfeited were those of school teachers. The forgeries are so well executed that even the City Comptroller believed his signature correct. A man giving the name of Wm. H. Randall, and a confederate, name unknown, who narrowly escaped arrest, are the guilty parties. Ridgeway discovered the swindle in time to prevent his check for $2,000 being cashed. Feli, Kay & Co. and W. W. Kurtz & Co. are also victims to the swindle. The extent of the swindle reaches $15,000. Each party to the frauds and a part of the jewelry stolen were found.

—Alderman Donley, of the South Side, has been turning his attention to the work of hunting up burglars in the Twenty-fourth ward. He followed one man to Soho whom he had arrested and committed for a hearing on next Thursday. He also found another of the "light fingered gentry" in whose possession he found a fine gold watch and chain. His second prisoner, however, made his escape.

—Yesterday Messrs. Gustave Praetsch and Albert Eatzky, who were arrested on Monday at the house where the counterfeiting materials of the Lagab brothers were found, gave bail before U. S. Commissioner McCandless and were released. Elizabeth Lagab, mother of the two men in jail, was also arrested yesterday and held for a hearing. Detective Pender searched the house again, and in addition to the stuff that has already been found, he discovered bars of nickle, which had been made ready for casting into coins, a ladle and crucible, with metal in it, and other materials.

—In accordance with a recent resolution of the Police Committee, requiring the front office force of the Mayor's office to swear to the number of days they have been on duty each month, before they can get their pay, Chief Irwin made oath that during October he was on duty thirty-one days. Controller Snodgrass thought different, however, and refused to issue a warrant for the Chief, on the ground that he had not served the time stated, also asserting that members of the Police Committee have alleged that the Chief was not in Municipal Hall during the whole month. The City Attorney has been asked for an opinion in the case.

—The Pittsburgh Central High School received last month three Indian implements, which together have an interesting and extended history. The first is a pipe and tomahawk combined, procured from the Winnebago Indians last Summer. The second is also a pipe and tomahawk exactly like the first, but much injured by rust. The latter was dug up on Pine Creek, and was used by the French Indians an hundred or more years ago. The third is a large stone tomahawk or ax, found in Shaler township, which carries us back to the stone age, before the advent of the white man. Now they lay side by side in the High School cabinet representing the present, the historic past, and the dim shadowy age of stone.

The Crops.

LONDON, November 10.—The Mark Lane Express says: The weather the past week has been mild. Roots which at one time seemed hopeless now show quite a crop, owing to abundant moisture. There is apprehension lest vegetation may go on too fast, and be injured by frost. Wheat sowing is nearly over. Every European port is open, and shipments are hastened. Foreign arrivals and dampness of the weather operate against an advance in the price of wheat. Not one European market notes a rise, while in many there has been a fall of a shilling. Continental speculators and shippers are hanging back, notwithstanding a reduction in freights.

PARIS, November 10.—In consequence of his royalist and clerical opinions Chaffard, the newly appointed professor in the school of medicine in this city, was prevented from giving a lecture by the uproar of the students.

DR. WILLIAM PARKER.

He is Brought Before United States Commissioner McCandless Yesterday—In Default of $2,000 Bail he is Committed for Court.

The case of Dr. Wm. Parker, of which mention has been made in our columns, came up for hearing before United States Commissioner McCandless yesterday afternoon, and as the counsel for the defendant was not on hand, there was some delay in getting to work. The Doctor manifested a desire to admit the charges which had been made against him but U. S. District Attorney Reed was unwilling for him to make no defense, and said the evidence would be heard for the prosecution. Mr. Reed did not wish to take any advantage of the defendant because of the absence of his attorney and gave him every opportunity to ask any questions which he might desire. Only two witnesses were examined, the first of whom was the assistant Postmaster of Connellsville, and the second Mr. Myers of the Postoffice Department.

HIS OPERATIONS AT CONNELLSVILLE.

M. H. Collem sworn—I reside at Connellsville. I am assistant postmaster. I do all the business. Am acquainted with Mr. Parker. Have known him since September 21. Mr. Parker brought a letter of introduction to me from Mr. Shoemaker, of Uniontown. About October 25 in the evening mail from Pittsburgh, I received four foreign letters directed to Dr. Parker. I cannot say positively whether he called for them the same day or next morning. Some men had been noticed, according to Williams, looking in, in a suspicious manner. Sunday night, February 1, the cashier, Williams, and witness had been at work until late getting out. No one else was in the bank. (A plan of the bank presented and inspected.)

Witness proceeded—I left the bank that night (Sunday) near midnight; saw no one in the bank. October 24th, he saw Parker pumping a bucket of water; next seen Williams in the bank Monday morning; he was lying on the floor with a stick across his mouth, (stick produced); another stick (also shown) was passed under his knees, and his wrists were fastened to his knees with a rope (also shown); noticed a slight show of blood on one of Williams' hands; two lamps were on the table in the directors' room; had only left them and said it was all right. Counter in the front room; the doors opening into the directors' room had common mortise locks; this was locked when I left and when I came back; front door is locked by two locks; has a Yale lock and a spring or night lock; went out that way; left everything in the bank in good order; as to money, there was about $14,000 in currency in the vault. Also special deposits in bonds, &c. Saw defendant stow away the trays containing this, and in morning saw one of these trays empty, and some water bonds also, lying on the floor. Didn't notice whether Mr. Williams' chain was in his possession, where we found him; Williams, the night before, had said: "If you are through you can go home." It was a pleasant moonlight night. There is a hotel on one side of the bank; the street is a sixty feet one. About 10:30 that night heard Mr. Williams speak to some parties on the steps—Mr. Robinson for one.

Cross-examined by Mr. Thompson—Mr. Merritt Robinson is an expert book-keeper. Mr. Williams and self were out the bank Sunday afternoon; were making out a report; at five o'clock Mr. W. went to tea with Robinson; stayed and lighted lamps; they were filled freshly and had short wicks or would not have lasted long after they left; the shears being hung alongside of the desk, next morning were on the desk near the vault. The books were finished up to date. Robinson left at about 10 P. M.; Williams left shortly after, and I heard talking immediately after; knew Mr. Larimer; one of those voices I should say was his, the other, Mr. Powell's; Williams came in about eleven, and said he had thought it "devilish queer;" and that some parties had looked in at the bank windows; I am positive the vault was not open when I left; it might have been locked, some U. S. bonds were in the vault, but not in the burglar proof safe; the rest were all in the latter, and they were taken; there are two keys to the front door; Williams, I think, had one and I the other; a person coming out could lock the door in the vestibule.

THE CASHIER DISCOVERED.

Shortly after seven on Monday morning with Mr. W. L. Robinson, came to the bank; Williams was not there; heard groaning, and found on entering that Mr. Williams was tied in the corner; Mr. Robinson had cut some of the strings before I got in; Mr. Armstrong came in afterwards; there was but little fire in the stove before I left. The lamps I left I found in the director's room; saw Mr. Williams, but didn't notice any saliva near him; saw two coupons on the floor near him, one for $30.00 and one for $15.00. Mr. Williams seemed perfectly helpless, and was carried next door, to the store, by four of us.

Howard Armstrong, sworn—In January and February, 1874, was clerking in Power Brothers' store, in Connecautville; the store is in the same building, but separated therefrom by a hall-way. [Diagram shown.] Monday morning got up between six and seven o'clock; came down into the store room by the stairway; after fixing up the fire in the stove, went in after a broom under the stairs. Heard groaning, and went to Mr. Williams' house; he was not there. Got Nichols and with him went to bank and went in; also Mr. Robinson; we went in together; I went to the opening in the the counter and saw Mr. Williams lying on his right side, with his face to the counter; think his hands were tied between his legs; didn't help to take him out; Mr. Robinson cut him loose; he appeared to be fainting or something, and I went for a physician; the short stick [shown] was tied across his mouth and back of his head; didn't examine it closely; didn't notice bonds lying around, nor notice the lamps particularly; saw shears on the desk; saw no revolver; the door from the director's room to the hall was not locked; the other hall door was locked; the former was not usually locked.

The testimony closed at this point, and will be resumed at half-past nine o'clock this morning. Thus far things look brighter for Mr. Williams than was at first supposed.

A meeting of the Finance Committee of Allegheny Councils was held last evening in City Treasurer MacFerron's office.

The committee organized by electing Mr. Alfred Slack permanent chairman.

The monthly report of the Controller, of the receipts and expenditures during the month of October, was approved.

An ordinance authorizing the refunding of overpaid taxes on property in the Butchers Run Hooded district, amounting in all to $229.87, was approved, and will be submitted to Councils for adoption. Isaac Stewart was elected collector of delinquent taxes in the Fifth ward.

The ordinance abolishing the office of Meat Inspector, combining the duties of that office with that of the Health Officer, was taken up and referred to the Health Committee.

A resolution was adopted directing the Controller to give the reporters of the press the proceedings of the committee after it had adjourned.

The ordinance referred to the committee relative to the salaries of the city officers, reducing some and increasing others, which was fully published in full, was taken up and a lengthy and heated discussion ensued.

It was finally agreed to report the ordinance back to Councils, and report adverse to changing the salaries of any of the officers except the clerk in the Engineers' office, and the clerk to committees. The salary of the clerk in the Engineers' office to be reduced from $1,200 to $1,000, and to increase the clerk to committees from $600 to $900.

The clerk to committees now receives $600 for clerking to the committee and $300 from the Park Commission, so it is really no increase, only combining the two salaries in one. A motion was made by Mr. Stroune to increase the salary of the Sewer Inspector two hundred dollars, but it was lost.

It was agreed to report a resolution to Councils to refer the matter of reducing the force in the City Engineer's office to the Survey Committee.

The Controller was directed to revise the assessment on some lots on Ravine street.

Some time ago the Controller notified the Pleasant Valley Railway Company that they owe the city one year's taxes on their cars, but the company decline to pay it and claim that it is not due. The matter was referred to the City Solicitor.

The ordinance relative to contracts, work, materials or supplies furnished for the city, was taken up and amended, and will be reported to Councils.

Several assessments on city property for healing sewers were referred to the street Committee.

The petition of Martha Graham for refunding of tax, was referred to the Controller.

It was agreed to report a resolution to Councils, to refund $118 to Tally McIntyre, for an illegal fine collected from him for building a wooden shed, which Mayor Neillie imposed upon him, and which the Court has decided was illegal, and ordered its return to him.

Bills to the amount of $100 were approved. Adjourned.

THE CONNEAUTVILLE AFFAIR.

The Case of D. D. Williams in the Circuit Court—The Testimony for the Prosecution.

The case of the United States against D. D. Williams for misapplying the funds of the First National Bank of Conneautville, together with alleged complicity in robbing the same, was called in the United States Circuit Court yesterday morning, Judge McCandless presiding. District Attorney Reed assisted by Messrs. Henderson and McClelland, of this city, appeared for the United States, and Hon. B. F. Brewster, of Philadelphia, and Mr. J. Ross, Thompson Erie, for the defense.

It will be remembered by our readers that on the first of February last the Conneautville Bank was robbed of about $14,000 in legal tenders, and $30,000 in United States bonds; that Mr. Williams, the cashier, was found in the bank, where he claims to have been working in order to get his books posted up to date, bound hand and foot; also with a gag in his mouth, which prevented him from giving any alarm.

WHAT THE CASHIER SAYS.

Mr. Williams alleges that while at work at his desk, some one rapped on the back door leading to the banking room, and on opening it, two masked men rushed in upon him, and after binding him, robbed the vault of its contents.

After impanneling a jury, which was not completed until nearly two o'clock, the evidence for the prosecution was commenced.

THE TESTIMONY.

F. R. Nichols, bank clerk, testified that the books had, as far as his knowledge went, been properly posted previous to the robbery. On the day of the robbery some men had been noticed, according to Williams, looking in, in a suspicious manner. Sunday night, February 1, the cashier, Williams, and witness had been at work until late getting out. No one else was in the bank. (A plan of the bank presented and inspected.)

Witness proceeded—I left the bank that night (Sunday) near midnight; saw no one in the bank. October 24th, he saw Parker pumping a bucket of water; next seen Williams in the bank Monday morning; he was lying on the floor with a stick across his mouth, (stick produced); another stick (also shown) was passed under his knees, and his wrists were fastened to his knees with a rope (also shown); noticed a slight show of blood on one of Williams' hands; two lamps were on the table in the directors' room; had only left them and said it was all right. Counter in the front room; the doors opening into the directors' room had common mortise locks; this was locked when I left and when I came back; front door is locked by two locks; has a Yale lock and a spring or night lock; went out that way; left everything in the bank in good order; as to money, there was about $14,000 in currency in the vault. Also special deposits in bonds, &c. Saw defendant stow away the trays containing this, and in morning saw one of these trays empty, and some water bonds also, lying on the floor. Didn't notice whether Mr. Williams' chain was in his possession, where we found him; Williams, the night before, had said: "If you are through you can go home." It was a pleasant moonlight night. There is a hotel on one side of the bank; the street is a sixty feet one. About 10:30 that night heard Mr. Williams speak to some parties on the steps—Mr. Robinson for one.

Cross-examined by Mr. Thompson—Mr. Merritt Robinson is an expert book-keeper. Mr. Williams and self were out the bank Sunday afternoon; were making out a report; at five o'clock Mr. W. went to tea with Robinson; stayed and lighted lamps; they were filled freshly and had short wicks or would not have lasted long after they left; the shears being hung alongside of the desk, next morning were on the desk near the vault. The books were finished up to date. Robinson left at about 10 P. M.; Williams left shortly after, and I heard talking immediately after; knew Mr. Larimer; one of those voices I should say was his, the other, Mr. Powell's; Williams came in about eleven, and said he had thought it "devilish queer;" and that some parties had looked in at the bank windows; I am positive the vault was not open when I left; it might have been locked, some U. S. bonds were in the vault, but not in the burglar proof safe; the rest were all in the latter, and they were taken; there are two keys to the front door; Williams, I think, had one and I the other; a person coming out could lock the door in the vestibule.

THE CASHIER DISCOVERED.

Shortly after seven on Monday morning with Mr. W. L. Robinson, came to the bank; Williams was not there; heard groaning, and found on entering that Mr. Williams was tied in the corner; Mr. Robinson had cut some of the strings before I got in; Mr. Armstrong came in afterwards; there was but little fire in the stove before I left. The lamps I left I found in the director's room; saw Mr. Williams, but didn't notice any saliva near him; saw two coupons on the floor near him, one for $30.00 and one for $15.00. Mr. Williams seemed perfectly helpless, and was carried next door, to the store, by four of us.

Howard Armstrong, sworn—In January and February, 1874, was clerking in Power Brothers' store, in Conneautville; the store is in the same building, but separated therefrom by a hall-way. [Diagram shown.] Monday morning got up between six and seven o'clock; came down into the store room by the stairway; after fixing up the fire in the stove, went in after a broom under the stairs. Heard groaning, and went to Mr. Williams' house; he was not there. Got Nichols and with him went to bank and went in; also Mr. Robinson; we went in together; I went to the opening in the the counter and saw Mr. Williams lying on his right side, with his face to the counter; think his hands were tied between his legs; didn't help to take him out; Mr. Robinson cut him loose; he appeared to be fainting or something, and I went for a physician; the short stick [shown] was tied across his mouth and back of his head; didn't examine it closely; didn't notice bonds lying around, nor notice the lamps particularly; saw shears on the desk; saw no revolver; the door from the director's room to the hall was not locked; the other hall door was locked; the former was not usually locked.

The testimony closed at this point, and will be resumed at half-past nine o'clock this morning. Thus far things look brighter for Mr. Williams than was at first supposed.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1874.

BONDS at Frankfort 97½.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 23½f.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 110¼

GOVERNOR HARTRANFT has added the day set by the President, November 26, for the observance of Thanksgiving.

THE presence of typoid fever in and around the city has awakened some little anxiety for the healthfulness of Allegheny and Pittsburgh during the coming Fall and Winter. The flood and the putrifying bodies that remained after it had subsided, and the warm, murky weather that we have had for a time, are the causes for this unfortunate sanitary condition of the city.

THE name of Col. John M. Thompson has been mentioned as the probable Republican candidate to succeed Mr. McJunkin, resigned. Every consideration of political propriety favors this idea, and we hope Mr. Thompson may be selected as the candidate. He is personally popular, lives at Butler, where Mr. McJunkin resides, and will command in Butler and Armstrong a very large majority. He is one of the best lawyers in the State, and is in every way a good and available candidate. We believe he can beat any man the Democrats can put in nomination. We most heartily endorse Colonel Thompson as our candidate for the old Twenty-third District.

THE annual report of General Sherman is not noticeable, so far as the mere abstract furnished the press gives information, as to its contents, for any new suggestions. He defends, incidentally, his removal of the war office to St. Louis, and objects to the reduction of the army. General Sheridan touches two points of interest. He gives a better impression of the richness of the Black Hills than has been had, and suggests that a strong military post be established there. In reply to some remarks of General Pope, he affirms his belief that whatever the truth may have been several years ago, it is not true at the present that people on the frontiers, with large herds of cattle, and exposed homes, seek to provoke Indian wars. Their interests are too large, and their danger too great for this to be true. The [illegible] ...ary, accordingly will be re... permanent ..., as fixed by Congress.

"INDEPENDENT" journals are enjoyable, particularly when newly imported writers, who are generally supposed to have abandoned the legitimate use of David's Psalms, seek to turn them to account in snarling editorials. Psalm-singing writers of "independent" editorials may serve to illustrate the old adage that "Birds of a feather flock together," but good taste would suggest that reminders of a former sphere be kept in the background. Nor is it in good taste in a journal of the kind described to undertake to charge evil motives on others, as we happen to know of an "independent" journal in this city that begged to be permitted to do the city printing for $1,000, but was contemptuously turned adrift. This accounts for its howls against individual Councilmen. We also happen to know that the head-centre of an "independent" city journal was roaring around the Court House, a few days since, for "pap." As the editorial tone of that journal is invariably controlled by the presence or absence of "pap," or blackmail, we think it about time, that, hand-organ like, it should begin to drone out its sorrows in Psalms.

WE FIND, in two of our evening cotemporaries, a statement in language so nearly identical, that we assume the same thought occurred, in about the same way, to the minds of the able editors respectively, that inflation has had its day, and the next Congress will be against it, and the like. Were our good friends aware of the fact, that since the panic, and the consequent reduction of the volume of business, there have been very few persons or papers that advocated inflation? We favored more currency prior to September, 1873,—and we have kept a close look out since then. When the volume of business dwindled, we promply admitted that the need that had existed was gone. Such has been the attitude of every paper that has come under our notice since the time referred to. In saying this, we counted the $44,000,000 reserve as part of the currency of the country, and all this but $18,000,000 was legalized by Congress. But we know very few persons who, at this time, want inflation. There are always restless persons with new and crotchety ideas, but there are few, even of original inflationists, who, under the altered circumstances, desire it.

WE have not the same appreciation of great works of art that they have in Spain. The old town of Seville, in Spain, has suffered loss, Murillo's great painting of St. Anthony having been stolen from a Cathedral in Madrid. The sum of $10,000 is offered for the picture. This is merely the reward offered for the recovery of a painting owned by the city of Seville. It illustrates the high estimate placed on Murillo's works. He is first among the old Spanish masters, and his works and memory are reverenced as much as those of the old German and Italian masters are in their respective countries. The principal works of Murillo are at Cordova and Seville, and they are prized above all money. That stolen is not his greatest work—the "Annunciation," we think, and several others ranking above it. But all Murillo's works are prized, as all are of rare worth and beauty. It is surprising that one should be stolen, as to exhibit it anywhere would be to court detection; and even if it were spirited away to another country, "a possession would stand associated with a theft of the most execrable kind. Even Emperors and kings have been severely reprehended when they seized the works of the great masters under the rules of war."

WE have been somewhat surprised at the wonderful laudation bestowed by the Philadelphia press on Judge Kelly's anti-reciprocity speech, and a copy of a notice of this character has been sent us for republication, to have a high opinion of Judge Kelly, and of his ability as a thinker and speaker on economical subjects, but we are free to admit that his address on the reciprocity treaty was far below his reputation. It dealt in surmises, and gave an importance to the influence of an unknown Canadian that he did not deserve, while really important phases of the subject were not touched upon at all. The fact that this reciprocity treaty will open up free trade with the world, was not even alluded to. Nor was the importance of the attempt, through this treaty, to break down a fundamental feature of our system—that of having the House originate all bills affecting the revenues of the Government, was not as fully developed as it might have been. The really important feature of the speech was the announcement, by Mr. Kelly, of his purpose to introduce an amendment to the Constitution, to prohibit such treaties being considered. We write these criticisms in a spirit of entire friendliness to Mr. Kelly; but we presume the address delivered was hastily prepared, and that it did not really embody the mature thought he would have given had he taken more time for preparation. But it is not good taste to laud weak productions, as though they are really meritorious.

BOARD OF TRADE.

We hope all who are interested in business or manufactures will be at the pains to attend the meeting for the organization of a Board of Trade to-morrow. We do not need to dwell on the importance of such an organization, as it will be recognized by every person whose business has taken him to other large cities, and who has observed the organizations there. All else aside, Pittsburgh is at the head of navigation, with a river line that skirts important cities, and extends to the Gulf. It has business operations of vast magnitude, and in many ways it has interests that need the attention of business men. Council, but a day or two since, took action on a subject of vital interest to the merchants and manufacturers of the city, yet except as there were a few of this class in Council, there was no one to speak for them. We do not need to enter into the merits of the canceling of the contract with the railroad, but certainly it involves a question of gain or loss to our manufacturers. We cite this as a matter of recent occurrence, that illustrates the importance of a Board of Trade. We hope the meeting to-morrow will be largely attended.

THE WAY OF DUTY.

One thing is very clearly comprehended by all who have a share in the management of political affairs,—that the most earnest and thorough effort should be made to redeem the management of the Republican party so that the people will be satisfied. It has been intimated that those who close their Congressional career with the next session of Congress will be careless and vengeful. We do not think so. They have been honored by the party, and notwithstanding their defeat, they owe it their best services to the end of their public careers. That the President fully realizes the gravity of the situation we are convinced; and he will do all in his power to rectify any errors that have been made, and to set the party right before the country. He is singularly open to information, and no one approaches him with anything of real merit who does not receive an attentive hearing, and if he has valuable suggestions, who does not find the President always ready to award them a cordial reception. This has been his history during his Presidential career. He has positive convictions of his own, and will hold firmly to them unless clearly and amply convinced of their error, but once convinced, he has the nerve to change his mind. This is clearly true of him.

Congress, then, is the only body in which any difficulty need be anticipated, and we fear it there only because of the lack of unity among Republicans. Fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be, there is no recognized leadership among Republicans in Congress. In the Senate, Mr. Morton, of Indiana, more than any other, is the recognized political leader, but Conkling, Sherman, and others are ever contesting his right to the place. In the House, Butler has wielded a superior personal force, which has made him in a sense a leader, but, in reality, there are several persons who claim to lead, on particular questions, and thus there is no recognized general leader. Out of this has grown a great diversity of views, plans, and purposes, and the final result was not entirely satisfactory to the party.

Accepting the panic as the root cause of the change in the popular verdict, the important question is, how shall we remedy this so far as it now exists? We answer that the early and positive policy of the Republican party, as regards the currency,—consolidating and confirming the volume we now have, and freeing banking, is to be maintained. Protection to American industry, through a tariff, is to be continued, and even strengthened, if need be. The volume of trade is already turned in our favor, and with proper encouragement, we may send abroad annually $100,000,000 more than we import. These, however, are but preliminary matters.

The great need of the hour is the revival of home industry, through the prosecution of the enterprises of the country. We have a hesitancy to speak of the several railroad movements, which will come before Congress, looking for a change of aid, from the land subsidies they now have, to the endorsement of bonds. We believe Congress should consider them very carefully, and not commit itself to them, unless the reasons and policy are very clear. If the starting up of the various railroad enterprises of the country would clearly contribute to the revival of American industry, it will be a strong reason in favor of the movement; but if this result will not clearly follow it will be a delicate subject to touch. Our conclusion is, that Congress will do well to deal carefully with all such subjects. If a taint of suspicion attaches to any of the railroad companies, they should be left severely alone. And in any event, it becomes a delicate subject to deal with. We have no advice to offer, other than that the most earnest care be taken, to consider the subject in all its bearings, and only act in the light of the clearest wisdom and party expediency as well. It is a time when we must even hesitate over what may be intrinsically right, and the popularity of a given cause clearly discussed before it is adopted.

The course marked out must take cognizance of the fact that we have not time to illustrate the beneficence of any policy that looks to the future for its development. A suspicion lurks around all railroad operations, because of the Credit Mobilier operations of the Union Pacific Railroad. Whether the present Congress can afford to touch any doubtful subject is a question of real moment. At all events, there can be no doubt that on all subjects affecting the solid prosperity of the country, clear, positive, bold action should be taken. With proper action, tending to economize the administration of the Government, and such other legislation as will promote home prosperity, we may fairly trust to the recuperative influences of a year to bring the country up out of the panic; and this in advance of the assumption of power by the Democracy. So much done, and we can calmly wait and see what the Democracy will do. That they will quietly permit the cardinal doctrines of Republicanism to stand we do not believe. But with the country recuperated and prospered, they must pursue an exceedingly wise policy to maintain their hold on public confidence. This, then, is the important session of Congress. Let small, sectional bickerings stand aside, and Congress legislate for the good of the entire country.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

The Death Penalty for Stealing.

About 1807, a poor woman with two children, one at the breast, stole from inside a shop door a piece of linen worth some seven or eight shillings. She, however, had not proceeded far when she repented of her crime, and was returning to the shop with it when she was arrested. She was tried at the Old Bailey, convicted, and condemned to death. The jury and the prosecutor unanimously recommended the woman to mercy, on account of her husband having been disposed as a sailor, her destitute condition at the time, and her previous unblemished character. But all in vain. The judge refused to indorse the application, and the woman was executed at Tyburn, the child being taken from the breast at the foot of the gallows. In the minds of a large majority of the public this execution created indignation, and a bill was brought into Parliament to abolish the punishment of death for stealing in a shop to the value of five shillings. This bill was at first thrown out in the House of Peers, the Judges being against it. The bill subsequently passed the lower House, was introduced into the House of Lords of a bill for the abolition of the punishment of death for stealing in a dwelling house to the value of forty shillings, the majority of the Judges were against it. Lord Ellenborough was particularly emegetic in his opposition, arguing, as he believed it would be well as if [illegible] ...ation should it be altered! One of the Peers was so struck with the validity of the learned Lord's arguments that he said, "We shall not be able to place our heads with safety on our pillows if that bill passes into law!" In the thirty years from 1799 to 1829, for offenses against the Bank Act alone, 1,161 were capitally convicted, a terrible opinion became too strong to be disregarded, the Judges offered little opposition to such atrocious cruelty.—The Saturday Journal.

Loan Societies.

The accounts rendered pursuant to Act of Parliament by 464 loan societies in England, stating the results of their transactions in 1873, show that at the close of that year they had 32,100 members, and £380,543 in the hands of borrowers. Loans were made in the year to 7,564 persons. There was repaid of £7,891 for forfeits of application and inquiry, and £30,568 for interest on loans. The expenses of management were £17,797. There were 1,614 distress warrants issued in the year, and £2,058 costs incurred by societies in recovering loans; the amount of costs paid by borrowers or sureties was £1,721. Almost all the societies are in the metropolitan counties, or in Lancashire or Yorkshire. Many are on a very small scale, but some are great establishments. A loan society in Temple Row, Birmingham, has 399 members, made 4,345 loans in 1873, circulated £6,610 in that year, had £7,987 in borrowers' hands at the end of the year, and states its expenses of management at £1,665, and its net profits, after paying the expenses of management at £605. A loan society at Nottingham, with only 17 members, made 4,272 loans in 1873, circulated as much as £27,355 in the year, had £16,346 in borrowers' hands at the end of the year, and states its expenses of management at £700, and its net profits at £1,285, after paying expenses of management.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

SALVINI is somewhere in South America, but has not been heard from lately.

MISS CUSHMAN'S engagement has cleared from $1,000 to $2,000 a night after all expenses paid.

DUNRAD'S troupe, Mme. Tonnelier prima donna, gave a week of English opera last month at Edinburgh.

"THE BLACK PRINCE," a new comedy bouffe by H. B. Farrie, has been produced at the St. James Theatre, London.

DR. KOCH, a "fanaticio per la musica" has bequeathed to Frankfort, his native city, the large sum of 1,720,000 francs, to found a school of music.

MLLE. ALBANI always wears a plain gold bracelet on her right arm. It is a present from a dear friend, and she considers it a kind of talisman.

HON. W. F. CODY, better known as "Buffalo Bill," has returned to the Big Horn Expedition, and will soon reappear on the dramatic stage for a short engagement.

MISS ROSE HERSEE, having recovered from the recent attack of illness that prostrated her in Dublin, has rejoined Carl Rosa's English opera company in Manchester.

THE present Italian opera company in Paris numbers among its members Mme. Pozzoni, formerly of the Opera House, Carlo, and Fraschini, Tamberlik, Verati and Anastasi.

A PARISIAN musical directory defines a shout to be "an unpleasant noise produced by overstraining the throat, for which great singers are well paid, and small children well punished."

IT is not the correct thing to go to the opera in gorgeous attire. Such costumes designate the occasional visitor. The regular habitues know better than to rumple their good dresses in the seats.

MME. RISTORI has received signal honors in Peru. On the occasion of her farewell appearance a grand reception was given by the President, and a medal of gold was struck for the occasion and given to her.

THE ticket speculators think that Miss Charlotte Cushman is the greatest actress of the day, or night either. They call her Miss Crushman, and declare they never knew her equal in putting tickets through.

MR. TENNYSON, who has not been to a theatre for ten years, went up to London to witness Mr. Irving's performance of "Richelieu," and was so pleased with it that he invited the actor to his house in Surrey, where, during a brief holiday, Mr. Irving stayed two days.

IT is said that a young lady of speculative energy induced the management of Booth's Theatre to let her have ten seats for Miss Cushman's farewell at cost price. She resold them all, and having paid expenses of advertising, postage, &c., is considering between diamonds and a trip to Europe.

OHIO papers, we notice, are pushing the ancient William Allen for the next Presidency. It will require considerably more pushing though than their combined efforts to budge the old gentleman, let alone to get him up to the scratch.

"YOU'VE sowed the wind, and now you reap the whirlwind," said the school teacher, as he brought his cane down in a hurry in the back of a rebellious boy. "Yes, and it's a regular hurry-cane, too," sobbed the youngster, between the whacks.

A CALIFORNIA millionaire came to Providence after a wife, a few months ago, and has now gone West with an alto singer from one of the churches. Couldn't he have found a woman of sufficient vocal power west of the Mississippi?

AN exchange seems sadly grieved over the sorrows of a man who is compelled to listen while ladies talk about galloons and cuirass basques. Is it any worse than watching two men try on each other's hats?

RETURNS from ninety-three counties in Missouri give Hardin, Democrat, for Governor, 125,754; Gentry, Independent, 86,466; Hardin's majority so far, 39,287. The vote for Congressmen has not yet been received from any of the districts, but there is no reason to doubt that the entire delegation will be Democratic.

THE only evidence of perturbation which the President gave when a messenger rushed in with the news that Massachusetts had gone Democratic, was to remove the cigar from his mouth and rest the lighted end of it on the back of General Babcock's hand. Babcock's perturbation was much more pronounced.—Brooklyn Argus.

THE following little sermon is not a bad one for grown persons: "A loving heart and cheerful countenance are commodities which children should never fail to keep on hand. They will best season their food, and soften their pillows. Sour faces and cross words make everything go wrong. Keep in the sunshine of God's love, and don't give the frowns a chance to deepen into wrinkles."

A VERMONTER has discovered a new explodent. He was roasting some chestnuts on his stove, and eating them as they popped, when he was annoyed by one fine large one which would not pop. After it had undergone considerable heating, he undertook to bite it, but just as he had fixed his teeth in it, the explosion came, forcibly impressing his mouth with a suddenness that was not at all pleasing. The results were a severely burned mouth, slightly cut and much ill-temper. If the harmful chestnut gets into bad ways, where shall we be safe?

THE exports from this country of the products of swine have increased sixfold within the short period of five years. For the four years ending in 1870 the combined exports of pork, bacon, hams and lard from the United States averaged 117,500,000 pounds per annum; for the year 1873 they amounted to 741,200,000 pounds. The exports of pork and beef increased from $17,210,090 in 1870 to $70,398,000 in 1873. The New York Daily Bulletin says that the improved condition of the working men in Germany and Russia and increased wages of English workmen have led to a demand for meat which the countries themselves cannot supply, and hence the increased demand made upon our markets.

FOREIGN NOTES.

IT is stated that lightning conductors made of straw have been tried in France, and found to act admirably.

STUDENTS of Sanscrit are recommended to study "The Paribhasenduskhara of Nagojibhatta." Its title will be sufficient for other people.

THE authorities of Seville, Spain, have offered a reward of $10,000 for the recovery of Murilla's great painting of St. Anthony, stolen from the Cathedral.

A YOUTH who attended a Scotch revival meeting for the fun of the thing, ironically inquired of the minister "whether he could work a miracle or not." The young man's curiosity was fully satisfied by the minister kicking him out of the church, with the malediction, "We cannot work miracles, but we can cast out devils."

"FIGARO'S" fiction that Thiers was captured by brigands ends in a joke. They put his ransom at 3,000,000. He grumbled, of course. "Why," they said, "you pay 5,000,000,000 to the Germans." "Not me," he said, "that was France." "Come, come," said the leader, "I read all about it in the Bien Public, your own organ. There never was a word about France in it. They always said M. Thiers paid it." The end of the story is so much better than the rest of it that people fancy the story was made for the joke.

A STATEMENT in the Berlin correspondence of the London Times goes to show, if it be authentic, that the Arnim case was not a regularly-concocted plan on the part of Prince Bismarck to bluff off a diplomatist who was, or might be, formidable as an opponent or by disclosure of State secrets. It is to this effect: "The Arnim case rose in the simplest way possible. When Prince Hohenlohe entered upon the duties of his office, [the Paris embassy,] one of the officers of the embassy informed him that a number of registered despatches were missing. As some of these despatches had been sent through special couriers, Prince Hohenlohe, believing them to be important, wrote to Berlin for copies. Then the rest necessarily followed."

THE American Register, published in Paris, explains the reason of the protest lately made by Spain against the proposed Carlist consultation upon the French frontier. The cause, or one of the causes, is the existence of a Carlist Court at Biarritz, where the Duchess of Madrid is regarded as a Queen. The family councils are all held there, and she maintains punctiliously the etiquette of the Royal house. It is also the headquarters of Carlist news and the rendezvous of Don Carlos' courtiers. Among the residents are the Duc Robert de Parme, the Duchess of Madrid, Counts Bardi and Bari, the infant Don Sebastian, and Francis II. The French papers very generally contend that if there is a law forbidding the Bourbons to reside there, Marshal Serrano should appeal to it, rather than demand their arbitrary expulsion.

OHIO ITEMS.

"TRAMPS" infest Mansfield.

THE Coshocton Iron and Steel Works Company has failed.

JEFFERSON county had $145,500 of bonds issued for the erection of a court house outstanding on the 1st day of October.

THE gas works at Barnesville are nearly finished, and New Philadelphia has at last taken a vote and decided to let works be constructed there.

THE teachers' institute held in Canton last week, was, so says the Repository, the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Ohio. About three hundred and fifty teachers were enrolled. The exercises were very interesting.

THE snow, on Saturday, fell to the depth of about six inches, in Jefferson and vicinity. On Sunday it was very uncomfortable walking, and froze quite hard during the night. A bright warm sun on Monday closed out the stock of snow on Monday.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

Affairs at the banks continue as usual. There are influences at work, however, which begin to seriously threaten the continued activity of our manufactories. We refer to the negotiations with the puddlers in our iron manufactories, for rates to correspond with the times. The manufacturers declare that the question of continuing through the winter is bound up in it. They have been going forward, at little or no profit, their machinery wearing, and their investments suffering from depreciation, till the time has come when they either must reduce their current expenses or stop. The puddlers have the matter under consideration, with some doubts afloat whether they will agree to a small reduction of rates or not. There were rumors yesterday that Jones & Laughlin had determined to close their mill. The subject is very important, and deserves serious attention.

The movement to develop a Board of Trade in this city is exceedingly important, and deserving of the earnest attention of all our business men. The meeting for organization to-morrow should be largely attended.

Yesterday an election of directors of the Lawrenceville Savings Bank was held, with the result of reinstating all the old directors except two, James B. Young, of the Phœnix foundry, and McKee, of the planing mill, on Thirty-third street, being the two men. These were the only changes.

The Western Insurance Company also elected the following board: Directors—Alexander Nimick, Reuben Miller, Jr., Andrew Ackley, Alexander Speer, David M. Long, John R. McCune, Charles J. Clarke, William S. Evans, Phillip Reymer, William Morrison, Domenec Ihmsen, H. Sellers McKee, John B. Jackson.

—The total of anthracite coal marketed for the week ending on the 31st ultimo amounted to 529,248 tons, and for the coal year 15,936,208 tons, against 16,988,574 tons to corresponding time last year, being a decrease of 1,042,360 tons. The bituminous tonnage for the week is 70,453 tons, and for the year 2,808,839 tons, against 2,798,019 tons to same time last year, giving a total of all kinds for the week of 599,701 tons, and for the year of 18,735,047 tons, against 19,766,593 tons to the same time last year, being a decrease of 1,031,546 tons. At Port Richmond for the week ending the 7th inst., the receipts of coal were 63,000 tons, the shipments 47,000 tons, leaving 109,000 tons on hand. The coal and coke tonnage of the Pennsylvania Railroad last year was 91,234 tons, and for the year 2,695,393. Of anthracite and bituminous there were 2,295,761 tons, and of coke 400,511 tons. This includes the tonnage of coal both east and west. Vessels during the past week have been in fair supply, with freights ruling steady at $1.35@1.40 to Providence, $1.60@1.70 to Boston, and 95 cents to New York. The coal production from the several regions this year to the 1st instant shows a loss, as compared with the production last year to the same time, as follows: From the Wyoming region, 574,928 tons; from the Lehigh region, 288,223 tons; from the Schuylkill region, 116,328 tons; from the Shamokin region, 53,938 tons; and from the Lykens' Valley region, 4,315 tons. The bituminous production shows an increase of 15,043 tons. The retail trade, as usual at this season of the year, is quite active, and is likely to continue to the expiration of the season, which ends with this month.—Phila. Ledger.

—The New York Times explains the movement of the stock market after the election as follows: The Stock Exchange now represents public sentiment to a large extent, and this was seen in the general impression and lower prices for speculative securities which followed Tuesday's elections, but the condition of the market did not suit the interests of certain large speculators on the bear side, who discovered that they had too many followers, and saw the necessity of changing front and becoming bulls temporarily. This they did by purchasing stocks at the decline on Wednesday and suddenly advancing the market, thus frightening the smaller operators on the bear side into covering their short contracts, which operation left the large speculators the only bears, and enabled them to sell at a good profit the stocks they bought on Wednesday, and at the same time to put out a fresh line of shorts at higher figures than have been current for some time past.

—The cotton movement at all the ports for last week included receipts of 148,013 bales, and exports of 52,287 bales. The total receipts at all the ports since September 1, are 800,197 bales, and exports, 283,791 bales. Both the receipts and exports this year are in excess of last year.

NEW YORK, November 10, 1874.

The customs receipts were $404,000 and the Treasury disbursements $660,000. The produce exports for the week were $5,161,241. Sterling was firm at 484¾ to 485 for sixty days and 488¼ to 488½ for demand. Money was active. Call loans advanced to 4 per cent. on an increased demand from Stock Exchange borrowers. Gold opened and closed at 110⅜. The carrying rates were 1, 2, and flat. The clearings were $28,000,000. The failure of Geo. H. Reay, envelope contractor for the Government, is announced, with liabilities at $200,000. Government bonds were in good demand, without decided change in price. Railroad bonds were strong and active. State bonds were quiet. Stocks opened steady. At the first board there was a decline of ⅛ to ½ per cent., followed by an advance of ⅛ to 1 per cent., but at the close the market was weak, and the advance was lost. COMMERCIAL.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

PITTSBURGH DAILY MARKETS.

General business continues slow, unusually so for this season of the year, and there is very general complaining in commercial circles; there is not much doubt but what our merchants could increase their sales considerably if they were willing to sell as freely on time as they did prior to the panic; this they are refusing to do, hence business is a good deal curtailed in consequence. It has been pretty well demonstrated during the time in question that there is no profit in selling goods to long-winded and doubtful buyers, and this accounts to some extent for the limited amount of business, as this class of buyers are not able to buy as largely as formerly; they have but little ready money, and with their credit impaired, they are obliged to curtail their business in consequence. It is hoped and expected, however, that there will be a very general revival in business early in 1875, but the prospects are not very favorable for any improvement in the meantime.

APPLES—Continue to come in pretty freely, and the supply is accumulating, but prices are still maintained; $1.50@2.50 for common to prime and $3 for choice.

APPLE BUTTER—Dull; 60@65c ℔ gallon.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Continues to come in freely, and prices are weak and drooping; 3½c to the trade and 4c in a jobbing way.

BUTTER—Dealers generally report the market slow, although there is no quotable change in rates; good to prime roll, 27@30, and fair to medium, 20@25. Some dealers quote choice up to 32, but there are few sales above 30, and not many even at that figure.

CHESTNUTS—Dull; $2.50@3.

CHEESE—The market is steady, and we can report regular jobbing sales at 16½@17 for Ohio Factory and 17½@18 for New York.

CRANBERRIES—There is a fair demand, but the supply is fully equal to it, and the market continues quiet and unchanged; selling at $10@15 ℔ bbl for Jerseys and $14@15 for Sacketts.

EGGS—The receipts are increasing, but it is probable that the bulk of the receipts are pickled. We continue to quote at 29 to 30 for fresh, guaranteed as such, and 20 to 25 for pickled, according to brand.

FLOUR—Trade in this market continues dull, and prices are weak, although without quotable change. Spring wheat flours, $5.75@6 for Wisconsin's and $6.25@6.50 for Minnesotas; winters, $5.75@6.25 for red and $6.75@7 for white. Rye Flour, $5.50 to $5.75.

GROCERIES—The grocery trade, so far at least as Pittsburgh is concerned, continues dull, more so than usual at this particular time, and we do not look for any special activity during the remainder of the year. The demand for all the leading articles is restricted entirely to present necessities, as dealers generally, both large and small, are carrying no more stock than they can possibly help, and it is expected this course will be pretty closely adhered to until after the close of the year, as there is an entire absence of anything like speculation. Coffee, according to our dispatches, continues dull at the seaboard, but without quotable change in prices. Sugars weak and drooping.

GRAIN—Business in grain circles was rather more active to-day, and prices, if anything, were rather firmer, but without quotable change. Penna and Ohio Wheat is still quoted at $1.12@1.15, and amber and white at $1.18@1.20. Oats are quoted all the way from 56½ to 60c, for common mixed to prime white. New ear Corn in light supply and steady at 64@66c on track, and new shelled is quotable at 68@72, in elevator, according to quality and condition; old shelled quiet and nominal at 80@82. Rye quiet at $1@1.05. Oats firmer. In regard to Barley, a Chicago exchange of Monday says: "Most of the shorts for this month seem to have filled in on the bulge, and some of them loaded up in hopes that a further advance would enable them to make good the losses they incurred on the short side. But the news came in that something like 1,000 car loads are now on the way here from California, that the rate of freight is being reduced to $1.25 ℔ 100 lbs; it was $1.50 till a few days ago. It is also found that European Barley can be laid down in New York at $1.30@1.50 ℔ bu, which fact would cut off the demand for Western Barley if the latter should keep up at present figures, which are also tempting to large consignments from Canada to this city."

HAY—The market for baled is steady, if anything firmer, while as regards prices, they are without quotable change, ranging from $18 to $22 ℔ ton, as to quality and condition. Loose is selling from country wagons at $25@30.

ONIONS—$2@4 ℔ bbl.

POTATOES—Continue to come in freely, and while some operators report the market a little weak and prices lower, others say that there is a continued active demand, and that good stock are bringing full prices; may be quoted at 85@90c for prime to choice Peach Blows, and 70 to 80 for Peerless and Early Rose. Sweets in light supply and firmer.

PROVISIONS—The western markets were reported firmer yesterday, in sympathy, doubtless, with hogs, but our market, while fairly active, is quiet and unchanged. Following are the current rates:

SEEDS—There is nothing doing, and in the absence of sales we omit quotations.

TALLOW—Continues scarce, and the market is quoted firm at quotations; country, 7@7½c; city, 8@8½.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

There is but little that is important to record in connection with the petroleum trade; business continues very quiet so far as our market is concerned, and there is but little prospect at this writing of an early improvement. Crude, as noted in our report of Monday, is firmer but unchanged; immediate shipment at Parker quoted at 77½ ℔ bbl. We understand that there is considerable trading in buyers options for the next three months in the producing regions, but here there is an entire absence of anything like speculation; there was a time when Pittsburgh was the head-centre of business of this character, but that day has passed away, as have also a good many who were engaged in it at that time. Refined continues quiet and unchanged; Philadelphia delivery, 10⅞; Baltimore, 10⅝@10½ cents.

The receipts of crude oil continue very meagre, as compared with what they usually are at this season of the year, and no increase is probable until the pipe line is completed, or there is sufficient water in the Allegheny river to bring it down in bulk barges. Refiners say that in the present condition of affairs they cannot afford to pay the cost of transportation by rail.

The Barrel trade continues dull and neglected, while prices remain unchanged: countries, $1.30; city make, $1.40.

New York Breadstuffs Market—Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, November 9—The features of our Flour market since this day week have presented very little change for the better: Spring Wheat Shipping Extras have been better sustained than other descriptions, and have sold rather more freely, the demand chiefly from the Liverpool and London markets; the supply of really good Shipping Extras has proved comparatively light during the season, and they have been sold at comparatively high prices; the great disparity in prices this year, as contrasted with last season, is the most noticeable in good Family brands; these are selling generally at $2.25@2.50 ℔ bbl lower, and even at these low figures there is a want of prompt sale for them even at these low figures that we should, though since our last we have not added to our stock to any extent. In our last, in estimating the probable stock in store, we placed it at 360,000 bbls—this, we think, after further examination, is excessive, and place the estimate at 300,000 barrels, which approximated very nearly to the aggregate supply; we find the consumption of good and choice Winter Wheat brands at these low figures is much larger than last year, but not equal to the receipts. In New Spring Wheat Minnesota brands the transactions have been moderate, and with more liberal arrivals, lower prices have been accepted, but this has failed to stimulate the inquiry, local dealers using them less freely than last year, as they lack age, and many of them are too soft to work well as yet, but in color they are even superior to last year; late in the season we look for a more active trade in them. The extreme low prices accepted for really extra Winter Wheat brands have diverted the attention of the trade from old favorite grades of Spring, and hence we have added considerably to our stock of low and medium Spring Wheat brands. In "New Patent Process" the business has been limited, and we find the supply of this description moderate, and the assortment less desirable, and the consumption of them below that of last year. In New and Superfine we have had a good degree of activity, but not without much variableness, and since Tuesday with more liberal supplies, prices are lower and the sales limited. In City ground we have had more activity, especially for the West India; prices are without much change, and we note more doing for the British Provinces. The exports of the week are 54,184 bbls, against 34,836 bbls the corresponding week last year.

The features of our Wheat market the past week have been rather more satisfactory to holders than for some weeks past, and have presented a pleasing contrast to those of the preceding one, though the business has been moderate. The falling off in the movement at the West and the uncertainty in regard to the future rates of freight with the interior during the winter months have inspired confidence in the future and the offerings have been quite light, and the principal receivers have withheld their Wheat from the market; this, with some decline in ocean freights, has given holders a decided advantage, and notwithstanding the liberal arrivals and material increase in our stock, prices have improved, and we have had a more general demand, in part speculative. We notice a wide range in the prices of Spring, and the quality generally is much below that of the last crop, hence we have a very wide range in prices. Old Spring is inquired after, but we find it in very limited supply, and prices entirely nominal. Good and Extra White Wheats have been in fair demand for export, at improved prices, and we find the stock of Winter is much reduced. Our late advices from London allude to our Amber and Choice Red Winter, and commend it highly, and during the month of October prices of Winter have improved, notwithstanding their liberal import. The imports into Great Britain from continental ports, have thus far been limited, but much larger supplies are looked for during this and next month, so that prices are likely to rule low during the Winter, as the quantity afloat from California and Oregon is considerably in excess of last year, while from Australia, Chili and Morocco there is nothing, hence there is some reason to hope that the stocks at Liverpool and London on the 1st of January next will not be equal to those of the first of January last. The English farmers' deliveries have been unusually large during the past two months, and although their crop is a full average it is found that a larger proportion of it is of ordinary quality than is usual in good crop seasons, and it is stated that much more of it will be fed to cattle with an admixture of Barley, Peas, Root Crop, etc., than is usual, and good authorities give it as their opinion that the feeding of Wheat to cattle is very general throughout the Kingdom, and as a consequence they estimate a falling off in their farmers' deliveries of 40 per cent; if this should prove correct it will be of great importance to this country. From France and Germany we learn that their markets have improved for Wheat, and the shipments hence for French and German ports are likely to do better than was expected. The shipments from South Russia continue to be active, and there are now in transit from the Black Sea and from Azof for the United Kingdom 1,072,210 bush. of Wheat, and the shipments will probably continue large for three or four weeks. From California the shipments are still liberal, but are likely to average less than during the Winter months last year. We notice long articles here and at the West in various papers condemning our farmers for holding back their Wheat crop; these editors and writers seem to think that farmers can or should market their entire Wheat crop at once, to the exclusion of all other crops, forgetting that we have less than half the export demand that we had last year. If our farmers had marketed 2,000,000 bushels more Wheat up to the present time than last year, what would have been the probable price here and at Liverpool? We feel confident the price would have been 20c ℔ bushel less than now; and what could we have done with 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 bu. hels more? We could not dispose of it at any price, because we could not negotiate the exchange to pay for it, and business would certainly have been at a complete "standstill;" this we feel certain would have been the practical result. Many editors get hold of an idea about business and finance and write glowing articles that as a rule will not stand a moment's criticism, at once showing an absence of any practical knowledge of the subject discussed. The exports of the week are 353,050 bushels against 1,044,894 bushels the corresponding week last year. The quantity of Wheat in sight has fallen off very much, and is 10,359,392 bushels against 8,705,470 bushels the corresponding week last year; this disparity is very marked, is very important, and cannot fail to attract the attention of intelligent merchants and millers.—Tribune.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, November 10.—There was a moderate package movement in domestic goods, and the jobbing trade was fairly satisfactory. Cotton goods are in steady but limited request, and prices are nominally unchanged. Dark Mader prints are slow in fancy styles, but side bands are quiet, active and scarce. A large jobbing house is making a drive in dark ginghams at 8c by the package. Woolen goods generally are quiet.

GEORGE H. ROHE, Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

The stage of water according to the marks was scant five inches yesterday, but there are from ten to twelve inches. Weather was cloudy and warm, with indications favorable for more rain; however, boatmen generally have but little hope of a good, navigable river until after there has been a fall of snow. This fall has been similar to that of 1867, when there was a swell in the early part of it, and steamboats that did not get out then were detained until the latter part of December. We are in hopes, however, that we will not have to wait until the latter part of December for water this year.

The steamer W. H. Osborne was built here in 1867 by Captain Thomas Rogers, for the Alabama river trade. There was a swell in the early part of the fall, and the Osborne was ready to go, but Capt. Rogers thought if he would wait that there would soon be more water, so that he could get a trip; the result was that the Osborne did not get out until Christmas eve, had ice all the way to Cincinnati, and was not able to work a full head of steam until she got to Maysville.

—The Memphis Avalanche of Friday says: Captain John A. Wood, the Pittsburgh and New Orleans coal dealer, passed through this city going north, on Wednesday last. He reports a fair stock of coal on hand at the Southern supply depots. On the first of the present month New Orleans had a coal stock on hand of 151 boats or barges, or upward of 3,000,000 bushels, of which 500,000 bushels belonged to gas companies, and was not on the market. The consumption last month was 563,000 bush. The supply at New Orleans and elsewhere along the river is enough to last until after January. Prices here continue uniform, and are 50 to 60 cents per box to steamers, and 75 cents per 180 pounds to the city trade.

—The Bismarck (D. T.) Tribune of October 28th says: "The Western left for below, Sunday. She returned Saturday from Fort Peck. Had a very pleasant trip, and made a quick and successful one. She brought down twenty-seven passengers, most of whom went on to St. Louis.——The Fontenelle and May Lowry having discharged their cargoes at Port Peck, are expected down every day. The Silver Lake arrived yesterday morning, and left for Yankton yesterday.——The Peninah leaves to-day for St. Louis. She has been engaged for several days in transferring freight from Lincoln to Rice, earning for her owners many ducats."

—The Carrie V. Kountz was nearly four days out to Vicksburgh. Her cargo embraced 5,350 sacks salt, 1,820 bdls iron ties, 171 bags coffee, 76 barrels rice, 63 bbls molasses, 51 hhds sugar, 50 bbls rosin, 505 barrels cement, and sundries, aggregating 8,592 packages.

—On Thursday last the directors of the St. Louis Sectional Dock Company elected Lewis Glenn, of Cincinnati, President; Wm. Thomas, Secretary and Treasurer, and Henry Adkins, Superintendent for the ensuing year.

—A late Memphis paper says: The City of Vicksburg ran close on the heels of the Illinois as they came up the river this trip. The latter either did not care to tackle the other, or else had important business at the bank about the time she came near.

—John Litherbury wants to sell his ship-yard at Cincinnati. It fronts on the river 680 feet, with a depth of 400 feet.

—Captain John H. Burk, for over thirty years a river pilot and commander, is now in the coal business at New Orleans, and represents Woods & Bro.

—The H. Turner was not sold to Capt. Chas. G. Schultze, Saturday.

—According to the Dubuque Herald of Saturday, there is an "immense" swell coming down.

HOME NEWS.

Installed.

Rev. Samuel S. Lowrie was installed Professor of New Testament Literature and Exegesis in the Western Theological Seminary last night. The services took place in the Second Presbyterian Church (Rev. Dr. Howard's) and addresses were delivered by Rev. S. F. Scovel and Dr. Lowrie. There was a large audience in attendance and the occasion was one of interest.

Tired of Life.

Yesterday morning a man by the name of Henry Schafert, a resident of Troy Hill, attempted suicide in Third alley between James and Middle streets, Allegheny. Upon examination it was found that he had fired a shot into his mouth, the ball lodging in the spinal column. Drs. Dickson and Hamilton were called, who attended the wounded man and it is said they entertain slight hopes of his recovery.

The cause which led to the rash act is supposed to be on account of jealousy on the part of another man's wife.

New Rules on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has adopted a new set of rules for the guidance of its train employes, among which are the following:

Newsboys on trains will not be permitted to individually importune or annoy passengers, but may announce, in a low voice, at intervals not exceeding four times in each car, the articles offered for sale. Nor will they be permitted to throw their papers, books, &c., on the seats of the cars, or in the laps of passengers.

Passenger conductors must seat passengers and see to their comfort and enjoyment as much as possible; see that none stand on the platforms or ride on baggage, mail or express cars; put off passengers refusing to pay at the next station; not permit drunken or disorderly persons on trains, nor allow profanity.

Baggage agents and masters must handle baggage carefully, the former to charge for extra weight invariably; the latter to carry only such packages, bundles, money, &c., as the division superintendents authorize.

No tickets to persons so intoxicated as to be incapable of taking care of themselves, or who, by reason of such condition, might risk their lives by traveling; nor to any one incapable of self-care.

TWELVE YEARS.

The Sentence of Hillon.

Yesterday morning H. K. Hillon, convicted of murder of the killing of Policeman Welmer, was brought into the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Judge Sterrett was presiding, and said before pronouncing sentence that if the prisoner had been convicted of murder in the first degree the Court would have approved the verdict. The Court, however, as he was only convicted of murder in the second degree, considered it a case in which the full penalty of the law was deserved. His Honor then sentenced Hillon to twelve years to the Western Penitentiary.

Hillon received his verdict in silence and gave no evidence of emotion as he was taken back to jail.

MILITARY.

Commencement of the Annual Inspection.

Last evening, in accordance with instructions, Major General A. L. Pearson commenced the annual inspection of the Sixth Division. He is required once a year, to make a thorough inspection of each company in detail, and to make a specific report from each to the Military Department at Harrisburg. In the performance of this duty he visited Knapps' Battery armory last night, accompanied by his staff and officers of the military. Several hours were spent in the inspection which was thorough in every detail, the guns, uniforms, armory, and all being scrutinized. The inspection was quite satisfactory, and the pleasure of the officers was expressed in complimentary terms.

The General will continue his rounds until he has swung around the circle of the Division, and will then forward his report.

THE FIGHT NOT ENDED.

More Trouble Among the Italians—A Regular Fight on Monday Night.

Everything is reported quiet on the Allegheny side of the river, at the Armstrong coal works, by Deputy Sheriffs Stubbs and Lane, who returned home yesterday morning, but on the Westmoreland side a regular battle was fought on Monday night. It seems that a large body of miners had succeeded in reaching the top of the hill in the rear of the entrenched camp of the Italians, and about eleven o'clock at night made a vigorous attack upon them. The Romans returned the fire, and for over half an hour the fighting was kept up at a lively rate. The Italians then stormed the position of the attacking party and succeeded in driving them up the hill. Firing was kept up nearly all night, but after the first hour there were only occasional volleys. Deputies Scandrett and T. Cinley went to the scene of conflict last evening to relieve Mr. Fife, who remained on the ground yesterday.

DOWN THE OHIO.

A Long and Pleasant Journey by Pittsburgh Artists.

Last night, says the Louisville Tribune of Saturday morning, there passed over the falls a large skiff, some twenty-three feet in length and partially covered with tarpaulin. Its occupants were two young artists of Pittsburgh, named R. B. Wilson and J. W. Alexander. They are floating down and down the river, sketching the country on each side, and crawling up the principal streams that empty into La Belle Riviere, transferring to their portfolios the chief objects of attraction. They have all the necessaries of life on board, do their own cooking, and are as completely independent of the world and its carking cares as any brace of gentlemen could well be.

The young artists left Pittsburgh the 26th of August last, and have been engaged in sketching the country as above stated. They pulled up the Great Kanawha and captured the picturesque treasures of the West Virginia mountain regions. They go from hence on down the river to-day.

Messrs. Wilson and Alexander propose to descend the Mississippi, ascend Red River, and then, returning, proceed to New Orleans, whence they will ship to Cuba. After they "do" this tight little yellow jacket among islands, they will advance on the latter, and paint the portrait Chagres, cross over, take up the Pacific coast to California, and explore the Yosemite and other valleys, the canons, mountains, rivers and gorges of the auriferous land. They will send back their sketches and letters to the more prominent eastern magazines, and we congratulate ourselves upon the prospect of, in their pages, meeting again with our adventurous voyageurs. For the present we wish them bon voyage.

A RAILROAD DIFFICULTY.

An Injunction Demanded by the Connellsville Railroad Company Against the Southwestern Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Yesterday morning the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad Company, through their counsel, Messrs. Daniel Kane and George Shiras, Jr., made an application to the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the Southwestern Pennsylvania Railroad Company from proceeding with the abutment for a bridge near the crossing of the two roads in Fayette county, alleging that they are excavating a portion of the Connellsville Railroad property.

A bond was filed in the year 1872 by the Southwestern Railroad Company, in the Common Pleas Court of Fayette county, securing the Connellsville Railroad Company against damages in crossing their track by the former road. It is alleged that there was no objection to the bond when filed, but that subsequently, after the line of the Connellsville Company had been crossed, it tore up the track, when a bill in equity was filed by the Southwestern Company, which obtained an injunction against the former company, enjoining them from interfering with the Southwestern Company's tracks, inasmuch as no objection had been made to the filing of the bond. From this decree the Connellsville Company took an appeal, and the matter will come up for argument in the Supreme Court next week.

Immediate action was demanded by the petitioners, who carried the case to the Supreme Court, but that body declined hearing the case until the list of the Erie district was completed, so it will come up in regular order among the Fayette county cases, which will demand the attention of the Court in about a week.

"WIVES OF GREAT MEN."

The Domestic Life of the World's renowned—Some Matches That Were Made in Heaven and Some That Were not—The Principle of Happy Marriages—The Opening Lecture of the Library Course by George Dawson.

Gossip about other men's wives must be an unusually attractive entertainment. Quilp says it's because marriage is misery, and every unfortunate Benedict is interested in contrasting his sorrows with others; but Quilp is a buttonless Bachelor and therefore not reliable. Evidence, however, that the subject is attractive was given last evening, by the gathering of a large audience at Library Hall to hear the opening lecture of the Library Course. Mr. George Dawson, a representative of English oratory, was the speaker, and his subject "The Wives of Great Men." The audience was an unusually large one for an opening night, and the lecture was one that was full of entertainment.

The English Orator.

Mr. Dawson, who made his first appearance here last night, is a lecturer by profession, having given twenty-seven years of his life to the rostrum. He is a bluff, hearty Englishman, portly in appearance, with shaggy, white hair and gray whiskers, and a florid though kindly countenance, suggestive of good living and good humor. He bears a very striking resemblance to Gough, with the exception that he is of a heavier build, and lacks the nervous intensity of the great temperance orator. He is very quiet in manner, gesticulates but seldom, and moves but little. An occasional shrug of the shoulders, or a spreading out of the hands, or a leaning on and over the desk, are the only movements made to impress his thought upon the hearer. His voice betrayed the huskiness which seems to be a characteristic of all English speakers, and was monotonous, though not unpleasantly so. The greatest fault that could be found with his style last night was that he talked in entirely too low a key, and thus many of his finest passages were only heard by the favored few who were within range of an ordinarily conversational tone of voice. Aside from this, however, the lecture was very enjoyable, and full of refined humor, dainty touches of pathos, and keen sarcasm, that were duly appreciated.

He was introduced about eight o'clock by Capt. Herbert, and after an apologetic paragraph concerning his hoarseness, which he largely ascribed to the atmosphere, he spoke in substance, as follows: If you were curious enough to inquire into the opinions of the great men of the world touching women, you find, running down the course of history, one consistent course of abuse of them. One great man said that boys, in the next world, would be degraded into women, and another said it was better that one man should be born than a thousand women. And they have been just as as they have concerning one of the parties to it. And all this would be very sad for women, if it were said by the angels, but, considering that it is only said by men, I don't think it much matters, and especially if you remember that on the other side of the page there is a stream of praise of women such as I hope is more true. One of the best love passages occurs very early. It is in the Book of Genesis, where it is said that one of the patriarchs served seven years for Rachel, but for the love he bore her the seven years seemed but as one day. No love poet has ever said anything fairer than that.

It may have occurred to you that you would find out what women ought to be by looking at the wives of great men, inasmuch as they would be sure to make admirable choices, and a collection of their wives would certainly be a collection of angels. I am sorry to tell you that great men have behave just as small men in this matter. Many of their marriages have been very noble, and many others very miserable. Whatever inspiration they have had in other matters, they have been left to their own devices in this matter. As we are going to look into the subject a little, let us first ask if there is any principle which has operated to make those marriages that they have been. For a collection of marriages without principle is like a collection of beads without strings.

Principle of Marriage.

The principle seems to me to consist in the understanding of the word friendship in its grand old sense, in the sense of the man we read of as saying that "It passed the love of woman." Friendship, rightly understood, is the grandest prerogative, the noblest privilege, and the most blessed gift of mankind. You may say to me that I ought to love my relatives. But I don't.

A woman comes to me and says, "Do you love me?" I say, "I don't." "Well, I am your aunt," she says. "I can't help it," I reply. I had nothing to do with electing my aunt, or my grandfather, and as to my cousins, "distance lends enchantment to the view" of relentless. [Laughter.] I cannot love people because of their relationship. The true friendship of two people is that friendship which draws them together without any compulsion. There is no social tyranny to make people friends in the old sense. Take what in old countries we call loyalty: it is very often mean and miserable, but occasionally noble enough. When a Prince has a wry neck, and the courtiers carry their heads aside, because the Prince has a crooked neck, that is simply absurd. When the Queen ties her veil under her chin on a windy day, and other ladies tie their miserable veils under their ridiculous chins on other days that are not windy (laughter), then it is simply laughable. But when Princes are wise and valiant, and lead their people nobly, then loyalty and love of them becomes something noble.

Friendship the True Basis.

There is a passage in De Quincy in which he says that he wonders how any honorable man could keep from wishing to kick Jupiter. You remember that Jupiter was an omnipotent god, but an omnipotent rascal. [Laughter.] Why did they worship these gods? Not because they loved them. Finding him lying on his back, they thought he had nightmare, but on trying to turn him over she perceived that he was unconscious, that his face was purple, and that it was evident he was about to send forth in Calling Mr. Charles C. Keller, a boarder, she sent him for a physician, but before he returned she found that her husband was dead, his little daughter being still asleep in his arms. He died within ten minutes after she was awakened the second time.

James R. Newell, Ph. D., was born March 3, 1831, in Bedford, Ireland. He was graduated at Queen's College, Ireland, in 1849, and studied for the ministry. He never preached, however, but at once began to teach. Soon after his graduation he removed to the United States, and was tangle in a college in Maryland. For ten years preceding his removal to this city he was at the head of one of the leading educational institutions of Pittsburgh. A year ago last September he came to Mt. Auburn, and accepted the position of President of the Young Ladies' Institute. To that place he brought rare ability as a teacher. He was a man of great industry, of wonderful learning, and possessed a most happy faculty of interesting his pupils in their studies. He was a kind and devoted father, and had an interesting family of six daughters, the youngest of whom is only five months old."

MEETING OF FORMER PUPILS.

A meeting of the former pupils of the deceased, in this city, was held yesterday afternoon, at which the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved teacher and friend, Professor James R. Newell, and deeming it fit and proper to give expression to our grief; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of our teacher, the late Professor James R. Newell, the community has lost an instructor, and one of its ablest and most devoted supporters; science of an earnest student; art of a liberal patron; the cause of religion of one whose life was characterized by humility and sincerity; the community of one of its most valued members; his scholars of a beloved friend and preceptor, and one who always had their best interests at heart.

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the will of Him whodoeth all things well, and feel that our loss is his infinite gain, yet we cannot but mourn his death.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family of our departed friend our heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of affliction.

Resolved, That we will attend his funeral on Wednesday, the 11th inst., as an expression of our affection and sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of those resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati papers.

The funeral will take place this morning at ten o'clock, from the Ladies' Department of the school on Penn avenue.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House—"Hamlet."

Another splendid audience greeted Mr. Lawrence Barrett, at the Opera House, last evening, to witness that eminent young tragedian's rendition of Hamlet in Shakspeare's tragedy of that name. Mr. Barrett's interpretation of the character may be said to be severely classical, and after his own fashion, as it corresponds in but few particulars with that of others who essay the role. It was, however, a master piece of acting throughout, and the audience gave evidence of its appreciation by frequent applause. We are pleased to note that Mr. Barrett is meeting with such a favorable reception at the hands of the lovers of the legitimate drama in this city. The support was good, much better than the evening previous.

This evening that sterling old drama "The Merchant of Venice," will be performed with Mr. Barrett in his celebrated character of Shylock. On Friday evening Bulwer's great comedy of "Money" will be presented, with Mr. Barrett in the role of Alfred Evelyn, in which he ranks second to none. It is so seldom that this play is produced here that the opportunity of witnessing it will be gladly embraced on Friday evening.

Library Hall.

On Friday afternoon next the Germania Orchestra will give a grand musical concert in Library Hall. This organization is one of the finest in the city and the programme is a very choice one.

Last Chance.

But a short time remains for the purchase of tickets in the Fifth Gift Concert of the Public Library of Kentucky. Agents have been notified to make returns from the 20th to the 25th inst., but for the convenience of those who may have failed to supply themselves through the agents, CASH orders will be filled at the home office up to the evening of the 28th, and if any money should come too late it will be promptly returned to the party sending it.

Mr. Case, from the Committee on High School presented a number of bills, which were ordered to be paid.

The city schools were ordered to be closed on Thanksgiving day, the 26th instant.

Mr. Case presented the annual report of the City Superintendent, which is a formidable looking document. The report was received and 1,500 copies ordered to be printed in pamphlet form.

OPINIONS WANTED.

Mr. Arthurs moved that the Secretary be instructed to refuse to pay any warrants to members of the board for services rendered by the board; also, that no bids for printing the report, or any other kind of work, be received from members of the board.

Mr. French moved that the question be referred to the Solicitor for an opinion in the matter. Also, to request the Solicitor to give an opinion as to the right of members of the board to go on the bond of the Treasurer. Carried.

The question has then raised as to who is the Solicitor of the board. Mr. Cohen was elected about two years ago but the law requires that the officers shall be elected annually. An election was finally held and Mr. Cohen elected Solicitor. Messrs. A. M. Brown, Josiah Cohen and Jacob S. Slagle were nominated, and Mr. Cohen receiving the largest number of votes, he was declared elected.

A bill from Mr. Cohen amounting to $450 for professional services during the past two years was read and ordered to be paid.

Additional teachers were asked for the following subdistricts: Springfield one, Hancockone and Washington two. Referred to the Committee on Teachers and Salaries with power to act.

Mr. Fleming moved that the Colfax district be allowed to open a night school, provided it gets ten scholars. (The other districts must have fifteen.) Carried.

Mr. McEwen moved that the Legislative Committee be instructed to take such steps as will procure the repeal of the law which requires that if any ward is divided into two or more precincts, the school directors elected must be chosen equally from each precinct. This law was good under the old Constitution, but under the new, the wards are divided into three, four and five precincts, and in the case of the latter two it would be impossible to comply with the law, as there are only six directors elected in a district. The matter was referred to the Legislative Committee.

Mr. Schultz moved that the Central Board furnish drawing copies for the Mechanical schools. Lost.

Adjourned.

STREET COMMITTEE.

The Liberty Avenue Contract—The Safety of School Children—Exchange Alley Ordinance Laid Over.

A special meeting of the Street Committee was held yesterday afternoon. An ordinance was ordered granting the property holders on Linden street the right to partially grade an outlet to Chestnut street, in the Sixth ward. On the petition of Thomas D. Owens & Co., for correction of assessment and for grading and paving of Penn street, from Wylie avenue to Centre avenue, action was postponed. A communication was read from Messrs. Hampton & Dalzell, solicitors of the P. V. & C. R. R., offering to build a subway under said railroad tracks at the point where the school house in the Thirtieth ward, in order to allow school children to reach the building without being obliged to cross the railroad track. An ordinance providing for the proposed improvements was also presented and affirmatively recommended to Councils. Mr. W. C Brown submitted a resolution for the filling of a bond of indemnity in the matter of the grading of Hill street, Thirtieth ward. It was referred to the Board of Viewers to ascertain if there is enough property benefitted to pay for the grading.

After transacting the above business the committee paid a visit of inspection to Exchange alley in the Fourth ward, and after reconvening Mr. Meyran moved that the ordinance now in Councils relative to Exchange alley be so amended as to instruct the Engineer not to open said alley until April, 1876, which motion was carried, and the ordinance as amended was affirmatively recommended.

Mr. Epping called for the opinion of the City Attorney relative to the awarding of the contract for the grading, paving and curbing of Liberty street from Thirty-fourth street to Liberty avenue. This contract was awarded to Frank Armstrong, but upon a verification of the other bids it was discovered that two of them were lower than Mr. Armstrong's, who got the contract upon the statement of a clerk who made the computations, but subsequently ascertained that he had made wrong calculations. When the matter was brought up at the previous meeting of the committee, a communication was read from Mr. Armstrong, who contended that the contract had been legally awarded to him, but that, in order to avoid any difficulty, he would do the work as low or even lower than the lowest bidder. The verbal opinion of the City Solicitor was to the effect that the contract could be awarded to Mr. Armstrong at his modified proposal. The matter was discussed for a considerable time, but no conclusion was arrived at, when the committee adjourned for want of a quorum.

EXTRAORDINARY BARGAINS IN DRY GOODS.

At A. W. Erwin's,
172 AND 174 FEDERAL STREET, ALLEGHENY.

In consequence of our recent embarrassment, and to convert our large stock of goods into cash as rapidly as possible, we will offer, for the next few weeks, some bargains that will be unprecedented in the history of the Dry Goods trade. Our stock is unusually full and complete, and will be kept fully supplied with all the best bargains in Dry Goods, as they are offered in the Eastern markets. It is a good time now to make purchases, as at no time for the last fifteen years have the prices of Dry Goods been so low as now. ORGANIZING AN S. P. C. A.

A Second and Much Larger Meeting Yesterday Afternoon—President and Vice Presidents Selected—Committees Made and Committees Appointed.

Another meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association for the purpose of furthering the organization of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The meeting was very much larger than the first one, and a commendable degree of interest was manifested by all present. The session was opened by Dr. A. G. Walter, who, in a brief speech, referred to the fact that was making to organize such a society, and of the aid that should be received from all citizens who feel an interest in having the brute creation protected from the cruelty of passionate men and careless boys.

Mr. Street presented a draft of a constitution, stating that he had embodied in it all the better features of the rules by which similar societies have been organized elsewhere. Among other things it provides that the annual membership fee shall be five dollars, and the life membership fee one hundred dollars. He said that quite a number of the wealthy men of Pittsburgh and Allegheny had informed him that while they had not the time to spare that it would be necessary to give, should they become active members of the Society, but that they were willing to assist it by paying the fee that secures a life membership.

Captain McKalls said that during a connection of fourteen years with the United States army he had visited many cities of the Union, but that in none of them had he seen animals subjected to as much cruelty as is visited upon them in Pittsburgh. He thought an S. P. C. A. a positively necessary institution here, and was of the opinion that it would receive the earnest support of the entire community.

After some further discussion a committee consisting of Messrs. Gelbert, Case, Hough and Donahue, was appointed to suggest officers for a permanent organization. The gentlemen retired, and during their absence addresses were made by Dr. Jennings, Mr. Kerr and Mrs. Hill. The committee returned after a short absence and submitted the names of the following persons for permanent officers.

President—James Park, Jr.

Vice Presidents—Maj. F. R. Brunot of Allegheny, Mrs. Samuel McKee of Pittsburgh, Mrs. A. Harvey, Pittsburgh, Mrs. W. P. Logan, Allegheny, Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, Pittsburgh, and Prof. L. H. Eaton of Allegheny.

A Secretary and Treasurer will probably be chosen at the ensuing meeting, and an Executive Committee of fifteen also appointed, the duties of which are not yet defined.

On motion a Committee consisting of Messrs. Donahue, Ritenour, Street, Jennings and Kerr was appointed to prepare a Constitution and by-laws. The draft presented by Mr. Street was referred to it with instructions to make such amendments and alterations as may be deemed necessary.

Messrs. Byram, Lowry and Street were appointed a Committee to solicit membership.

There being no further business to attend to, the meeting adjourned to assemble again at the same place on Tuesday afternoon next, at 3 o'clock, when it is hoped the attendance will be still larger than it was yesterday.

Do You Like This or That?

Pulpress with as choice an assortment of fresh fish of all known varieties as ever your eyes rested on. He has introduced this season several varieties, which are new in this locality, but which are highly prized by epicures of other cities for their fine and excellent flavor. What Pulpress does not keep in the line of fish is not worth keeping. And again you will be surprised to see what a great amount of fish he will sell you for a dollar.
